

Newspaper Archives

1. The British Newspaper Archive is accessible via this link::

<https://www.britishnewspaperarchive.co.uk/>

A subscription is required unless accessed at a public library.

2. Some newspapers can also be accessed by members of Oxfordshire Libraries through Gale's British Library Nineteenth Century Newspapers at home, in a library or in some educational establishments:

<https://www.oxfordshire.gov.uk/residents/leisure-and-culture/libraries/reference-online/news-magazines-and-research>

3. The online newspaper pages have been digitised by scanning previously made microfilm copies. The quality is variable. Jackson's Oxford Journals are generally good. Banbury Guardian and Advertiser are less so.

4. Where the transcript or summary contains a hyperlink to the corresponding page in the relevant issue on the British Newspaper Archive website, the last number (e.g. 0003) in the hyperlink denotes the corresponding page in the relevant publication.

5 (a) To view a newspaper extract via one of the BNA hyperlinks:

- click on the hyperlink;
- sign-in when the home page loads;
- click on the Log In tab;
- the relevant newspaper page will now download.

(b) Alternatively:

- sign in to the website;
- open a blank second page in your web browser;
- 'copy and paste' the link into the blank address bar of the newly opened page;
- the relevant newspaper page will now download.