

New windmill 1790s

A substantial new-built wind mill, surrounded by one acre of land, "situate near the Town of Deddington", featured as one of the lots at an auction by John Churchill of Woodstock publicised in Jackson's Oxford Journal on 14 February 1795. The wind mill is described as stone-built in a subsequent auction notice on 27 May 1797.

There was a third attempt to sell the wind mill by private contract in 1799.

Unfortunately the advertisements give no more information about the location of the wind mill.
