with Cast and Audience

Mr Hilary (translation)

'Curse it!' Mr Hilary cries, 'Where are my glasses?' Search the trousers and the frock-coat. Look in the right shoe and then in the left. Turn the wardrobe upside down; Try in the dressing gown, try in the overcoat. 'Scandalous' he shouts 'I cannot believe it! Someone has stolen my glasses!'

Under the sofa, on top of the couch - swearing and snorting, looking high and low. Rummage in the fireplace; reach up in the chimney Peer into the mousehole, open the piano. Time to pull the floorboards up! Time to call in the police! Then passing the mirror - No! it cannot be! Yes, he sees them in the mirror. Found at last. There they were the whole time, perched upon his nose.

Ode to Joy (Audience join in singing)

Sing to joy and gladness now
And evermore to freedom's song.
Open up our heart's desire
With love that's everlasting.
Let this magic bring together
All who dwell upon the earth
All mankind shall be together
And peace shall reign upon the earth

Sing to joy and gladness now
And evermore to freedom's song.
Open up our heart's desire
With love that everlasting.
Blue the sky and green the forest
All our children can run free
And through music bring together
All who sing the Ode to Joy.
