- He died on 28 Sep 1730 in Deddington, , Oxfordshire, England. EMBERLIN John [John's small family size and last christening in 1724 suggests that either he or his wife died not long after that. It therefore seems likely that this burial registration relates to him]

John married Eliz [7112]^{1,2} [MRIN: 146722942]. They had two children: Sarah and John.

- She died on 29 Sep 1757 in Deddington, , Oxfordshire, England.³ EMBERLYN Mary [The unusual signing of the christening record suggests something different about this individual. This death soon after may suggest that the child was sufficiently ill to be christened in non-standard circumstances. In the absence of other later Mary EMBERLAIN events it is therefore assumed that the two go together]

John Emberlin of Deddington, papermaker [6478]^{1, 7} was born about 1759, was christened on 20 Mar 1759 in Deddington Mill, Deddington, Oxfordshire, England, died on 15 Jul 1801 aged about 42, and was buried in Deddington, , Oxfordshire, England. Another name for John was John Emberlain.

Value less than £600. 'All his household goods household furniture and implements used by him in the manufacture of paper and all other his personal estate' in trust to his executors to sell and invest the money for his wife, or after her death or second marriage then for the maintenance of all his children (except John) until they are 21

Noted events in her life were:

- She died on 19 May 1811.⁸ Aged 8[?], name Maria EMBERLIN. Age looks like 8[?] but that seems totally inconsistent with the children's christening dates. Unless they were all christened as adults, the last would have been born when she was about 72! John's Will identifies the youngest as still under 21, so that seems unlikely. 5[?] seems the only other possibility given the chisel strokes that remain, but a five elsewhere on the stone has a different style to these strokes.
