

Fireman's Funeral

THE LATE MR. J. H. HIORNS OF DEDDINGTON.

The largest funeral procession seen in Deddington for many years was witnessed on Friday last at the funeral of the late Mr. J. H. Hiorns. As the cortege wended its way from the Congregational Church to the Cemetery there were upwards of 200 following. The bearers were members of the Deddington Fire Brigade, and representatives of Oxford City, Banbury, Brackley and Adderbury Fire Brigades attended.

The service was conducted by the Rev. J. F. Bradley (late pastor of the Congregational Church). The first part of the service was held in the Congregational Church which was well filled. En route to the cemetery blinds were drawn, as a tribute to the memory of deceased and in sympathy with the bereaved family.

The firemen, under Chief Officer Hall, gave the firemen's salute as they passed the open grave.

Wreaths were from: Sorrowing Wife and family; Dad and Mother; Sister Annie, Husband and Son; Fred, Mona and Marguerite; Fred and Lizzie; Em, Albert and Rowley; Aunt Mary and Uncle Alf; Aunt Carr and family; Cousins Ada, Esther, Cyril and Fred; Horder, Wilfred and Arthur; Uncle Dick, Aunt and family; the Young Men's Bible Class; an old member of the Bible Class; the Congregational Church; the Oxford City, Banbury, Brackley, Adderbury and Deddington Fire Brigades; the British Legion; the R.A.O.B.; the Loyal Cherwell Valley Lodge of Oddfellows; H.
